SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Reach a select demographic at Portland Columbia Symphony.
THE LOCAL CHOICE
Portland Columbia Symphony is made up of more than 60 freelance musicians who not only work locally, but in markets from Newport to Pendleton and Eugene to Tacoma as orchestra, theater, opera, and ballet musicians, college professors, private teachers, composers, editors, and arrangers. PCSO’s musicians are truly the backbone of Portland’s vibrant arts scene.

INVESTING IN ARTISTS
PCSO helps bring to life the artistic visions of its players through the extension of resources, administration, and mentorship. In PCSO Percussion and Friends, member Michael Charles Smith (pictured) curated an all-percussion virtual concert and collaboration with visual artists. “Meet the Instruments” was developed with PCSO bassoonist and composer Nicole Buetti as a way to engage young listeners during the pandemic.

A WIDER AUDIENCE
The only orchestra to present in East Multnomah County, PCSO is also committed to showcasing under-represented composers, including non-male, non-white, and living, local composers. We believe that concert experiences should be relevant both locally and culturally, and present music that tells the stories of Oregonians of all kinds.

AFFORDABILITY IS KEY
We keep ticket prices low and varied, and even offer a sliding scale based on household income to help eliminate financial barriers to participation.

“Many arts organizations chose to shut down during the pandemic. Portland Columbia Symphony has persevered and thrived – they’ve gone above and beyond to support the musicians and community.”
– Nicole Buetti, bassoon/contrabassoon
VIDEO HIGHLIGHTS

PCSO Percussion & Friends
March 26, 2021
See for yourself the many – and sometimes surprising – sides of percussion.

Meet the Flute
March 19, 2021
Vincent, Miss Chevious, and their new friend Liberty Broillet learn all about the highest instrument of the woodwind family.

2021 Gala and Auction
February 20, 2021
The talented players of PCSO helped us raise over $120,000 for community programs with the sizzling sounds of New Orleans jazz!

Holiday Brass
December 19, 2020
Holiday classics enjoy jazzy twists in this gift to our community, courtesy of our brass section.

RECENT MEDIA COVERAGE

The State of the Arts with Rebekah Phillips and Steven Byess
All Classical Portland, April 14, 2021

A Young Puppet’s Guide to the Orchestra
Oregon ArtsWatch, March 12, 2021

Portland Columbia Symphony partnership uses puppets to bring music lessons to kids
KGW News, March 4, 2021

Community Hotline: Portland Columbia Symphony
MetroEast Community Media, November 19, 2019
SPONSORSHIP LEVELS

CONVENER – $500
Lay the groundwork to build and create community.
You’ll receive:
• Linked logo on our website
• Logo display on concert promotions, including marketing emails and ads
• Special opportunities to reach PCSO customers with company discount codes and targeted promotions

INNOVATOR – $1,000
Help develop and grow our community.
You’ll receive all the benefits of a Convener, plus:
• Features on Instagram and Facebook
• Feature in PCSO’s e-newsletter
• Verbal recognition from the stage

STEWARD – $2,500
Support and share in a vibrant and thriving community.
You’ll enjoy all the benefits of an Innovator, plus:
• Full-color company logo displayed at concerts
• Season Passes for up to four people
• Invitations to private virtual and in-person events, including the Annual Gala and Auction

REACH AN ENGAGED AUDIENCE
Email subscribers: 1,500 and growing!
Average email open rate: 50.2%
Facebook followers: 1,433 (up 10% year-over-year)
Average unique pageviews per month: 2,248
YouTube views this year (Classical Series): 2,800
YouTube views this year (Meet the Instruments): 55,000

Want to reach even more customers with a larger sponsorship? Is $500 not quite in your budget? No problem – we’re happy to customize a plan that meets your goals!

Rebekah Phillips, executive director
rphillips@pcsymphony.org / 503-234-4077
pcsymphony.org
Thank you for your support!